- Lithuania's economy began 2025 on a high note, recording the most robust GDP performance in the EU
- Overall economic activity is being stimulated by decreasing interest rates and accelerating credit growth
- Higher-frequency data suggests that, despite external headwinds, the country's economic growth has remained broad-based and is likely to maintain momentum
- Investment is expected to accelerate due to the cyclical recovery, projected increases in EU structural and RRF funding, and both EU and local fiscal expansion in line with the pledge to raise defence spending to 5–6% of GDP
- After a respite in 2024, inflation is expected to rebound again this year driven by the increase in the food prices, increased excise duties and the CO2 component for fuel and the wage-inflation spiral, evident in services sectors
- Official simulation results from the Ministry of the Economy and Innovation and the Bank of Lithuania indicate that the impact of the tariff war on Lithuania's economic performance would be limited, reducing the country's GDP by 0.65–1.35% over the next four years
