Lower risk

Higher risk

The risk indicator assumes that the product will be kept for 3 years.

The summary risk indicator shows the risk level of this product compared to other products. It shows how likely it is that the product will result in a loss, either because of changes in markets or because we cannot pay you.

We have assigned this product to risk class 3 out of 7, with 3 being low risk. This means that losses related to future performance may be relatively small.

The following are the types of risks that the Fund can encounter and are underestimated in the calculation of the indicator:

Credit risk. The risk of loss due to the inability of the issuer of the securities to meet its financial obligations.

Counterparty risk. The risk that the counterparty will default on its obligations.

Market liquidity risk. Risk of losses due to low market liquidity, which prevents financial instruments from being sold at the right time at the right price.

Operational risk. Risk of loss due to system failure, human error or external events, including geopolitical, political and legal risks.

The purpose of derivatives is to hedge against adverse market movements for a limited period of time and to reduce the impact of unwanted risk factors.

Performance scenarios

The figures show the total cost of the product itself. These figures do not take into account your personal tax situation, which may also affect how much you get back.
